Announcing Our New Lightweight Portable Cooler

There's no doubt about it. Those big, expensive coolers are very difficult to move when you want to rearrange your kitchen. First you have to empty the cooler and then get several of your workers to move it to a new location. As you know, this takes way too much time and effort.

Well, we have a convenient solution for you.

The team at Chill-O-Matic has developed a new LBR (Light, Bright and Reliable) cooler. It's lighter than most coolers, which makes it convenient for you to move around your kitchen with ease, and it's affordable.

And the best part is you can purchase our new cooler for 25% off the actual price! Click here for more details.

It's Energy Efficient And Costs A Lot Less Too

The LBR cooler is light, portable and energy efficient. This is important to you because it will help you reduce your monthly energy bill. It also comes with rollers attached. That means two people can easily move it to another section of the kitchen without having to empty it.

It also has a full glass door with special coating that resists condensation, which allows the food to be easily seen. That means you can find what you're looking for without rummaging through the whole cooler.

The LBR is 28.2% less expensive than other comparable models according to a study from LR Brown & Associates, which means it won't take a huge chunk out of your budget to purchase it.
